

Circumpolar Health Research Network (CHRN)

Editor-in-Chief

International Journal of Circumpolar Health

The Circumpolar Health Research Network seeks to appoint an Editor-in-Chief for the International Journal of Circumpolar Health, a peer-reviewed, indexed, multidisciplinary online journal [www.circumpolarhealthjournal.net]. The journal is the leading international authority for circumpolar health research and is published by co-Action in association with the CHRN.

CHRN seeks a candidate from recognized leaders in the circumpolar health research community. The contributions of the position require up to 10 hours per week. There is not monetary remuneration for this appointment, however work expenses approved by the board may be considered. Candidates must have support of host institution, or ability to take on position without remuneration from CHRN. Applicants should have prior experience in scientific journalism or journal editing, and demonstrated ability to advance the journal, and enhance its influence in circumpolar affairs.

The successful candidate will commence May 1, 2014 and will work closely with outgoing Editor-in-Chief Prof. Kue Young over a 4-6 month transition period. A job description and further information about the nature of the work and time commitment can be obtained by contacting Prof. Kue Young [kue.young@utoronto.ca]

Interested individuals should submit (1) a curriculum vitae, and (2) brief statement of their experience and vision for the journal, to Prof. Peter Bjerregaard [pb@niph.dk], President of the Circumpolar Health Research Network by March 31, 2014.

.....

Circumpolar Health Research Network (CHRN)

Deputy Editors

International Journal of Circumpolar Health

The Circumpolar Health Research Network seeks appoint two Deputy Editors for the International Journal of Circumpolar Health, a peer-reviewed, indexed, multidisciplinary online journal [www.circumpolarhealthjournal.net]. The journal is the leading international authority for circumpolar health research and is published by co-Action in association with the CHRN.

CHRN seeks two candidates who have prior experience in scientific journalism and editing. The deputy editors will report to the Editor-in-Chief. The contributions of the position are part-time. The position is not paid. Candidates must have support of host institution, or ability to take on position without remuneration from CHRN.

The successful candidates will commence May 1, 2014 under the leadership of the newly appointed EIC.

A job description and further information about the nature of the work and time commitment can be obtained by contacting Prof. Kue Young [kue.young@utoronto.ca]. Interested individuals should submit (1) a curriculum vitae, and (2) brief statement of their experience and contributions they will bring to the IJCH, to Prof. Peter Bjerregaard [pb@niph.dk], President of the Circumpolar Health Research Network by March 31, 2014.